Sundae on a Friday:

Professor Albrecht Wagner, Director of DESY, will speak at a Special SLAC Colloquium on Friday, May 25 at 1:00 pm, Panofsky Auditorium. The title of his talk is, "TESLA, Physics, the Collider and the FEL." According to a reliable source, ice cream sundae fixings will be available afterward.

Physical Review Complete Online:

The American Physical Society has announced that electronic access to the Physical Review from 1893 to the present is essentially complete in their Physical Review Online Archive (PROLA). SPIRES-HEP searchers will now find a link to the full text of any Physical Review article indexed in the High-Energy Physics literature database. The SLAC Library has ensured that SLAC is included in Stanford University's site license for PROLA.

Your Attention and Protection are Needed:

SLAC is one place where the seriously-endangered, but misnamed, San Francisco Garter Snake lives. Please be careful to avoid harming snakes while traveling around the site, especially if you are in a vehicle. By all accounts, this rare and beautiful creature has few options left.

May Means Awards
