Family Day this Weekend

2002 Family Day is this weekend. If you haven't experienced the dunking booth yet, it's worth the price of admission just to see your favorite SLAC-ers get dunked. Wait a second... Family Day is free and everyone is welcome. What are you waiting for? See you this Saturday!

40th Anniversary Boasts a Strong Line-Up

In addition to SLAC's own shining stars, the 40th Anniversary Celebration will feature a stellar group of speakers from outside the lab, including Raymond Orbach, Director of DOE's Office of Science, John Hennessy, President of Stanford University, Robert Birgeneau, President of the University of Toronto, and Haim Harari, Past President of the Weitzmann Institute. If you haven't RSVP'd yet, better get on it.

Can you smile? Do you get out of bed in the morning? Do you work at SLAC?

Come be a member of the Welcome crew for the SLAC 40th Anniversary Celebration. It's easy. It's fun. You'll help our guests register, get information and directions, and enjoy their day. Lots of older folks will be coming too that may need assistance. The celebration is an all-day event, but if you can commit to a two-hour block of time, that would be great. No preparation or committee meetings required -- just one walk-through meeting Tuesday, Oct. 1 for all volunteers. Contact Lesley Wolf, x4390, if interested (please).

Nifty Link of the Week: Site Entry Form

What's the best way to let security know that you've got a visitor coming? Fill out this form. The information goes automatically into the system, so Security will know who exactly to call and where to send your guest.

New DOE Snail-Mail Address

The Department of Energy now has only one address for mail addressed to the Forrestal Building in Washington and the Building in Germantown, MD. The address for both buildings is: U.S. Department of Energy 1000 Independence Ave., SW Washington, DC 20585

The FedEx address for the Germantown building stays the same: U.S. Department of Energy 19901 Germantown Road Germantown, MD 20874
